The beginning stage of creating a product would be basic information. Everything that the user/customer will see on the store front. The price will be calculated in the next step.

Add A Background

Doing this on the admin side as creating a new product, will set up a default background for the specific product.

* This Feature will help give a better expectation to what the users sign will look like when it is installed

Add Background Image

Or

Add Background Color

* The idea of this page is that the admin can come in here and design the base product. Allow certain things that a customer can customize. Materials, size (mainly for print items), color, add/ remove text, etc...

* building a 2D image of what the product will look like. At scale and at a good zoom level on the page

* We are wanting this to work with the parts page. So each product will be able to take information from the parts that are being used to create the sign and calculate the price. When a customer changes or customizes the product, it will have an effect to the price with our pricing model that will be hard coded.

Example.. This sign would be a ADA, it has a header, and a backer

The side view would look like this. We don't need to include a side view, but it might be cool to incorporate.

ALLOW TEXT

Now when we are creating a sign we want to be able to attach customizable options to each "layer or piece"

- That Blue header could have text on it. we could let the user change the material, color and add text, logo etc... not the size unless the admin allows it for this product.

- Everything will have its own permissions. what the user can and cant customize

* What I am not certain about is if products should be just be hard coded instead of creating this huge design style program.

* on one hand I think this would be very useful for when a product gets ordered, the production files can be easily made or created when the product is being customized and then saved with the product data.
